*WHO: Key considerations for repatriation and quarantine of travellers in relation to the outbreak of novel coronavirus 2019-nCoV

https://www.who.int/ith/Repatriation\_Quarantine\_nCoV-key-considerations\_HQ-final11Feb.pdf?ua=1

On January 30, the WHO Director General has declared the outbreak of novel coronavirus 2019-nCoV as a Public Health Emergency of International Concern. Following that determination, WHO did not recommend any travel or trade restrictions, based on the current information available. Evidence on travel measures that significantly interfere with international traffic for more than 24 hours shows that such measures may have a public health rationale at the beginning of the containment phase of an outbreak, as they may allow affected countries to implement sustained response measures, and non-affected countries to gain time to initiate and implement effective preparedness measures. Such restrictions, however, need to be short in duration, proportionate to the public health risks, and be reconsidered regularly as the situation evolves.
